

State Floats

Third grade has been learning about the regions of the United States and what is unique about each area. Each class was assigned a specific region and the students became experts on the states in that region. They did research, made floats to represent their state, and then had a Great Travel Fair where they got to experiment food from each region. They had an amazing time.

