

The Curtis Science Challenge

The Curtis Science Challenge is an entry level STEM competition for students in grades Kindergarten – 4 created by the Orlando Science Center. The purpose is to prepare and inspire younger elementary students for science competitions later on in their academic careers.

The competition is challenge-based with a team focus. These pre-activities and prompts done at school, prepare students for a daylong event at the Orlando Science Center.

