

Norman Rockwell Paintings

Ms. Knight used Norman Rockwell paintings from the Orlando Museum of Art to do a "freeze frame" activity with her class. Students were placed in groups and given a painting to look at. Then, as a group, students had created a freeze frame picture of what they think happened before the picture, and what happened after the picture. It was amazing to see all the details noticed right down to the expressions and creation of movement.

